The Union square Theatre emerged from a farce-comedy siege last saturday hight, when it shook itself free from "Aunt Bridget," It had arother invasion last hight, and will remain for the rest of the week submerged beneath "O'Dowd's Neighbors." This piece is the typical laugh-vehicle. It has been improved slice it was last accepted here. Mark Murphy was the star, and, of course, he had the lion's share of everything—except the honors, which were shared with him equally by several members of the company. COLUMBUS THEATRE.

"The Soudan" began a week's engagement at Hammerstein's columbus Theatre last night. It is a melodrama that must rely principally for success upon a highly picturesque mob scene in Trafalgar Square, London. In this scene the services of many scores of people—men, women and children—are enilsted, and the result is somewhat exciting. The mob "worked" well last night, and was vectierously applauded. The audience was a large and a very friendly one.

MARLEM OFERARDISER.

There was a reduction of prices in the seats at Hammerstein's Harlem Opera-House last hight, and Harlem theatre-goers will be very giad to hear of it. It was a wise move on the shrewd manager's part. The entire orchestraseats now sell for $1 cach, and the family circle for 25 cents. This scale will be maintained. The play was "Later On," the perpetual farce indulged in by Hailen and Hart. It was as full of specialties as ever and people laughed.

"A Bunch of Keys" was one of the earliest of charles II. Hoyt's efforts. It had made a barrel of money before "A Trip to Culmatown" was even suspected. The early farce is still popular. People can to-day laugh at its absurdities, and they are anxious to pay for the privilege. "A Bunch of Keys" was the attraction last night at Niblo's Garden, and it was received in a very cordial way. WINDSON THEATRE.

In "Natural Gas," the well-known farce-omedy by H. Grattan Donnelly, there is ome attempt at a story. The piece is de-ored to an endeavor to show how a sudden core to an endeaver to show how a sudden elevation to riches and luxury affect the liliterate jorial heroine. It does this rather funnily. The tarce had an excellent interpre-tation last night at the Windsor Theatre, where it was greeted with roars of laughter, bonnelly and Girard, two very animated comedians, and Miss May Howard were the principal interpreter. principal interpreters.

H. R. JACOBS THEATRE.

A melodrama called "The Fast Mail" appealed strongly to the patrons of II. It. Jacobs carefully managed theatre last night. Mr. Jacobs knows that his patrons adore the peculiarly sensational epissdes that make up melodrama, and he gives them all the latest. "The Fast Mail" is quite lurid enough to satisfy the most inveferate lovers of this style of play. It is, however, effectively lightened by judicious concidy scenes. The piece was capitally staged and it will do a big week's business.

KOSTER AND RIAL'S.

KOSTER AND BIAL'S. Carmencita was again the principal attraction at Koster & Bial's Concert Hall last night. To the accompaniment of the Spanish students, she pirouetted and gyrated with the same astonishing effect as ever. Carmencita's performance does not occupy very much time. This is, perhaps, one of the secrets of her success. She has the good sense to withdraw at the right time, instead of tiring out her audience. The burlesque, "Don Juan," was continued. The patrons of the establishment appear to enjoy it. the establishment appear to enjoy i

"A Barret of Money "drew a good sized au-dience to Holmes's Star Theatre last night. The play is of the melodramatic order, and possesses several thrilling realistic situations. An fron mill and a steam-engine are snown. The principal roles are filled by George A. Booker, Louis Warner, Carrie Le Mont. BEDFORD AVENUE THEATRE.
